STEVENSON NOMINATED

Democrats Willing to Accept Votes of Other Parties but Not Candidates.

HILL REFUSED TO ACCEPT

Strong Effort to Force Nomination Upon Him---Towne Received Only 89 Votes.

Kansas City, July 6.—The Democratic national ticket was completed today by the nomination of Adlai E. Stevenson for vice president. The nomination was made on the first ballot, state after state joining in the wild scramble to record their support of the winning candidate. It was not accompanied by any such frantic demonstration of approval as had marked the proceedings at previous stages although the result followed a spirited and at times highly dramatic contest between the advocates of Stevenson, Towne, Hill and the lesser candidates.

The distinct triumph of the day in the way of a popular ovation was that accorded to Senator Hill and this spontaneity and wild enthusiasm was one of the most notable features the convention has produced. It was accompanied too, by a remarkable scene when Hill earnestly protested to his friends against being placed in nomination and then finding his protest in vain when he strode to the platform in tones which left no doubt of their sincerity, earnestly besought the convention not to make him the nominee.

The proceedings today moved with greater briskness than on the two preceding days for there was none of the tedious waits for the platform and other committees.

Crowd Was Admitted

The aspect of the vast auditorium was truly democratic when the session began. Anticipating the close of the convention the general public was admitted freely and as a result great crowds emptied into the body of the hall not only filling every available seat in the area and aisles but also overflowing into the arena reserved for delegates while some more adventuresome individuals scaled the lofty heights and looked down from a dizzy height on 20,000 people packed below. The crowd practically took possession of the proceedings and at times the chairman and his officials were so powerless to proceed that they gave up to the multitude until the various demonstrations spent themselves.

Demonstration for Towne

On the call for nominations Alabama yielded to Minnesota and the name of Charles A. Towne was placed in nomination as the representative of silver Republicanism and Democracy. Towne received a flattering demonstration in his honor men and women joining in the outburst. Far off in a corner of the auditorium a young woman could be seen frantically waving in one hand a lithograph of the Minnesotan and in the other the stars and stripes. On the floor the Nebraska Minnesota and one or two other delegations joined in the demonstration but it was noticeable that it did not evoke any widespread enthusiasm among those who were about to do the voting. Gradually other delegations began to rise some of the New Yorkers getting to their feet and for a moment it looked as if the contest might be carried off its feet. But against this was heard a counterstorm of protestation and discordant hisses. For ten minutes the demonstration to Towne lasted with vociferous intensity.

Laboring With Hill.

Meantime a stand in was being directed to an excited group massed in front of the New York section with Hill as the vortex of a struggling throng of delegates. They pressed forward from all quarters of the hall urging him to permit his name to be placed before the convention. The face of the New Yorker was a study as the demands upon him came from all sides. He sat in the front row of delegates with ex-Senator Murphy on his right and Judge Van Wyck on his left. A second seat away was Mr. Croker. Hill protested vociferously. Judge Van Wyck said he could not refuse. Murphy and Croker pleaded with him to obey the will of the convention and accept. While the pleadings continued the call of Delaware was heard above the roar and Delaware yielded her place to New York. At this the bulky form of Senator Grady, the silver tongued orator of New York, pushed through the densely packed aisles up to the platform. There was a hush throughout the hall to hear what word New York had to offer.

In behalf of the united Democracy of New York shouted Grady I present as a candidate for vice president the name of David Bennett Hill.

The effect was electrical and a final wave of enthusiastic approval swept over the convention. Delegates stood on their chairs and waved frantically hat in hand while scattered groups but in solid phalanxes. Flags and standards were again mingled in triumphant procession while a roar as from Niagara rolled through the great structure. Grady stood there proudly waiting for the storm to subside.

But as he waited the audience observed a strange pantomime. The New York Hill leave the New York delegation and push through the throng to the platform. They could see him appeal to Grady to withdraw, while Grady's answer was apparent from the shake of his head and his advance to the front of the platform to continue his nominating speech.

Hill's Refusal

When the demonstration had subsided Grady completed his speech placing Hill before the convention. But as he stepped from the platform the man who had just been placed in nomination took his place. The senator looked nervously even savagely on the shouting thousands. When he could be heard he made due acknowledgment of the honor done him. But I cannot must not, be the nominee of this convention, he declared with explosive emphasis. He was frequently interrupted with enthusiastic shouts of approval but when he left the platform the delegates were firmly convinced from his words and manner that he was sincerely desirous of having his name withdrawn. It is probable this action prevented a nomination by acclamation. That such a course was the point of being carried off its feet.

Stevenson a Favorite.

It was so apparent that with Hill out Stevenson was a strong favorite. State after state seconded his nomination. Georgia, Indiana, Virginia, Iowa, Kentucky, Illinois, some of the devoted friends of Hill still maintained their allegiance to him and the delegations of New Jersey, Louisiana and some others seconded his nomination. Maryland brought forward Gov. John W. Smith, while Hamilton Lewis, North Carolina nominated Col. Julian Carr and Ohio presented the name of A. W. Patrick. It was after 2 o'clock when the seconding speeches, many of them wearisome, were concluded and the balloting began. As the roll was about to be called Mr. Lewis appeared on the platform and in a few well chosen words withdrew from the contest. The vote was followed with intense interest, for when Alabama announced 7 for Stevenson and 15 for Hill it looked as though a close and exciting contest was to occur.

Started the Tide.

But it was soon evident that Stevenson had a strong lead. At the close of the call he had 55½ votes which however, was not enough to nominate the requisite two-thirds being 624. Hill had received 59 votes and Towne 58½. But before the announcement of the result a stout-lunged delegate from Tennessee stood on his chair and announced Tennessee changes her 24 votes from Hill to Stevenson.

That started the tide irresistibly toward Stevenson. From every quarter of the hall came demands for recognition. Alabama changed for Stevenson. California did the same. North Carolina changed from Carr to Stevenson. Even New York finally and reluctantly announced its change from Hill to Stevenson. That ended it—Stevenson's nomination was assured although for some time longer the various states continued to record their changes from Towne and other candidates to Stevenson. In the end the nomination was made unanimous. Its announcement was cheered with enthusiastic approval and again state standards and banners were borne about the building in tribute to the party nominee.

PRINCIPAL FEATURES OF THE DAY'S PROCEEDINGS

Convention Hall, Kansas City, July 6.—The final day of the Democratic national convention broke clear and hot the sun blazed pitilessly down through the same brilliant sky that has marked every day of convention week and the relief from the heat [illegible] advanced to the front of the platform a great bouquet of sweet peas in hand and with a sweep of the gavel cut off the strains of the band slowly stilled the confusion and brought the convention to order for its third day's work. But it was some minutes before there was silence [illegible] vocation and then the great audience arose while the Rev. Rabbi Mayer of Kansas City delivered a prayer breathing the sense of responsibility resting upon the convention.

Immediately following the prayer the call of states began for the purpose of making nominations for the vice presidency. Great confusion prevailed and very few of the delegates were aware of what was going on until Alabama and Arkansas had been passed and California had been called. Then the doughty form and florid face of Senator White emerged from the Californians and in stentorian tones he demanded to know what was going on and that the aisles be cleared of the disorderly intruders. When the chairman responded that California was being called for nominations Senator White announced that California yielded to Arkansas and Arkansas yields to Illinois. [illegible] Senator Illinois shouted Jefferson Davis the Democratic candidate for governor of Arkansas standing on a chair and receiving a cheer for his mention of Stevenson.

Stevenson Nominated

Now all business was suspended and as the confusion had become so overpowering that the call of the secretaries was inaudible above the roar. The [illegible] struggled vainly to dispose of the [illegible] which was now well nigh in control of the floor. Men fought to retain their places and there were many exciting encounters which at times threatened to precipitate a fight under the eyes of the multitude. It took fifteen minutes to restore some semblance of order and then the spokesman for Illinois Representative James Williams, presented the name of Stevenson.

Mr. Williams spoke rapidly and briefly and at his mention of Adlai E. Stevenson Illinois was on its feet cheering wildly. Kansas was up as was Alabama, Arkansas, Mississippi and a large number of delegates in different parts of the hall. The applause while vigorous, was short.

When the call reached Connecticut Utah's state gave way to Minnesota amid cheers and cries of "Towne."

A. A. Ricesing of Minnesota then took the platform to present the name of Charles A. Towne of his state.

Nomination of Towne

Mr. Rosing said:

Mr. Chairman and Gentlemen of the Convention: It is a great honor to be privileged to answer "here" to the roll call of Minnesota. The Democracy of the North Star state has a candidate for the nomination of vice president to submit to the convention. I am [illegible] to present the name of a man worthy of the high honor of being placed upon the same ticket with the splendid champion of equal rights whom you have nominated for president. We Democrats of Minnesota feel that we have earned the right to participate actively and effectively in the national councils of the party. For from a report [illegible] we have wandered in the wilderness but as a result of the great contest of 1896 and because of the splendid accessions to our ranks in that campaign we entered the battle of 1898 more aggressively than ever before and at last realized in our own state that for which we had striven so long and elected a Democratic governor. The veterans of those campaigns now stand shoulder to shoulder, determined that this year the electoral vote of Minnesota will be cast for the nominees of this convention. This action was made possible because of the brilliant courage and fidelity to principle of men who in that memorable campaign patriotically put country above party and severed their relations with the Republican party casting aside personal ambition, prejudices and self interest. The man of this type who perhaps sacrificed more than any one else who more than any other was called upon to bear upon the sacrificial altar [illegible] enough to satisfy vaulting ambition had the courage to sever the ties of [illegible] and personal friendship that he [illegible] true to his ideas of American [illegible] whom Minnesota looks [illegible] this convention as its candidate for vice president. We come to you asking for your support for our candidate not because he is from Minnesota, but because he is of the people, not because he is a product of the northwest but because he is an American not because he stands for any one issue but for all the issues that mean the preservation of American institutions. We ask your support of him because he is a Democrat [illegible] sound principle, a Democrat of the school of Andrew Jackson, Democrat of the broad philosophy and humanity of Abraham Lincoln, Democrat in defending the flag of the Union and in believing that to whatever land that flag be carried there the people over whom it floats are under the protecting aegis of the constitution. We present him to you not because he is rich in this world's goods not because his nomination would mean votes but because he is a beneficent God has endowed him with an [illegible] strong, a brilliant mind, a splendid courage, a big heart and all the qualities of American manhood. We ask your support for Minnesota's favorite statesman, orator and patriot whom I have the honor to place in formal nomination as the unanimous choice of the Minnesota Democracy, a leader of the people, Charles A. Towne.

Croker Begs Hill to Accept

While the galleries were enthusing over Towne there was an excited little group about the chair of ex-Senator Hill. In it was Croker.

"You must take the nomination and save the day," said Edward Murphy excitedly.

"I cannot, I cannot," replied Hill his face white and set. "I do not want it."

"You must take it," said Croker leaning over him while Norman E. Mack and Frank Campbell held Hill on one side and urged him to accept. An excited man from New Jersey shaking his finger under Mr. Hill's nose shouted: "You can't refuse you can't. The party must have you to save the ticket."

"I don't want it. You can't nominate Stevenson. He's as good as I am," said Hill and then turning to Murphy and Croker and waving his hands he said: "Please don't force this please don't."

Mr. Murphy then gave an indication of a prearranged scheme to nominate by saying to the excited Jerseyite: "You keep quiet and it will be all right. We have it fixed."

Meanwhile there was [illegible] to be no great in the hall but even after Chairman Richardson had recognized Governor Thomas of Colorado and the nomination of Mr. Towne not a word of his speech could be heard by either the delegates or the people in the galleries. Finally after Governor Thomas had been speaking for a minute or more former Senator White went to the platform and in [illegible] the concern on that [illegible] was now revealed. Would anyone take the galleries [illegible] cleared.

GOVERNOR THOMAS' SPEECH.

Gentlemen and Ladies [illegible] work of this convention from the hour of its convening until the present time must commend itself to the favorable judgment of a majority of the American people. If you further doubt, I would be characterized by the wisdom that you have already displayed then there can be no question as to what the verdict of public sentiment must be in November. You are at present about to select a candidate for vice president who in all respects should be of the full stature physically as well as mentally of your leader.

The Battle Still to Come.

My friends it is not in this convention [illegible] moment, that the great battle of 1900 is to be fought and won. From the Atlantic to the Pacific from British Columbia to the Gulf of Mexico, it is the work appeals to reason and to patriotism and courage the great cause of American liberty is to be won or lost.

I am here to day to ask my voice in behalf of a man who stands in full measure of our approval and admiration for president, whose voice will be heard on every stump whose influence is almost as extensive as that of our plucky leader, and who has signified his devotion to the great cause of modern Democracy by his enthusiastic support of its principles and its candidates ever since the adoption of the great Chicago platform of 1896. Upon this platform yesterday the great senator from New York (Hill) called our attention to the necessity of unity and harmony as the essentials of this campaign.

Harmony Essential.

My friends, if there ever was a time when unity and harmony were absolutely essential the day and the hour has arrived and every man and every woman whose heart beats in unison with the platform adopted yesterday should be brought in line for the support of that platform and its candidates.

If devotion to Democratic principles is of any significance if devotion to candidates and principles by day and by night all day and all night, if devotion constitutes Democracy then is Charles A. Towne of Minnesota a Democrat. (Applause.)

I recall the fact that four years ago [illegible] the house of representatives of congress that became a household document and a household word to 50,000,000 of American people. [illegible] I thought that wherever the battle was thickest and the fight was fiercest there stood this gallant son of Minnesota firm in the right speaking and working in behalf of William J. Bryan and the Chicago platform. (Applause.)

Anything Would Do.

My friends I do not care so far as I am concerned whether the candidate be a Jew or a gentile native born or foreign born Republican or Democrat. If he believes in the great underlying principles of Democracy he is one of us and cannot be against us.

What Ney was to Napoleon what Melanchthon was to Luther what Ireton was to Cromwell what Sherman was to Grant that is Charles A. Towne to William J. Bryan of Nebraska. (Cheers.)

It is said that geographical conditions should be considered. The great statesman belongs to no locality. He is ready to deliver his challenge and throw his glove at the feet of the entrenched hosts of San Juan and defy him to political combat through the length and breadth of this country.

"It is as far from New England to Duluth as it is from Kentucky to New York and as far as the candidate himself is concerned he has every equipment independent of geographical conditions to place him side by side upon this platform with our great nominee.

"I present and second the nomination of Charles A. Towne. (Applause.)

The Naming of Hill.

When the state of Delaware was called the announcement was made that the state would yield to New York. Delegate Grady, one of the leaders of Tammany Hall had already ascended the platform and as he stepped to the front to address the convention the applause and cheering increased.

His first sentence rang through the great building in trumpet tones.

On behalf of the Democracy of New York I present to this convention for the nomination for vice president the name of David Bennett Hill.

It was dramatic in the extreme. The effect was electrical. His words set the convention in a frenzy of enthusiasm. The scene which followed was far the most tempestuous of the session and the name of Hill echoed and re-echoed through the hall. State standards were seized and held aloft and the convention was canopied with fluttering flags and handkerchiefs. Delegates and spectators cheered and the great structure fairly shook with the noise when the galleries became infected with the enthusiasm.

Governor Hill meantime had worked his way through the surging multitude to the platform. As he ascended it his hands were eagerly grasped and he was escorted to the seat of the permanent chairman. He asked Mr. Grady to yield that he might make a statement but Mr. Grady declined.

Grady's Speech.

After some minutes of uproarious enthusiasm partial quiet was restored, and the senator continued:

The representatives of the Democratic party of New York with recognition of their responsibility to the Democracy of the [illegible] Democracy of the United States in the presentation of this honored name. There is no state in the Union which so much to gain through Democratic success [illegible] through Republican triumph as the state of New York. We are to elect this year not only the entire state ticket from a governor down to state engineer not only as in every other state of the Union every member of congress but every member of our state senate and every member of the assembly. Besides strongholds at home we desire more to strengthen the national ticket. Did we still have seventy two electoral votes [illegible] Hill shall be the nominee of this convention is no idle sentiment. We believe that David B. Hill is the choice of Williams, Bryan [illegible] of this convention sixty thousands upon thousands of voters the strongest man that can be named by the Democracy of New York, New Jersey and Connecticut. He is not nor has he been in any way suspected [illegible] who he thought might bring about harmonious action upon the part of the delegation from the state of New York and secure the electoral vote of that state for our nominees. He may be prepared to decline the nomination which the delegates have offered to him and now present to this convention. (Cries of "No no.") We say to you decline not do not decline from the first to the last ballot in this convention New York's seventy two unit true Democratic votes will be cast for David B. Hill. (Long continued applause and cheering.)

While Senator Hill on the platform waited for quiet and for Senator Grady to finish his speech he kept repeating: "I will not take it." To Senator Grady he said:

"This is absolutely unfair. You should not do it."

Statement.

Judge Van Wyck's effort urging him to [illegible] Senator Hill was obdurate. His face was like marble his hand trembled and he wiped the perspiration from his brow. While Senator Grady was speaking, Hill asked to see Senator Jones and when the chairman of the national committee came the ex-senator said to him: "Jones, stop this thing. It is not wise. It should not be forced upon me. Help me stop it."

Chairman Jones said:

"I will help you. Go to your seat and decline and I will help you out. I'll see the delegation leaders. You are right. You can't make your speech."

Then Senator Hill advanced to the platform. He stood with head bowed a few minutes expressive of gratitude for the cheers that rolled in heavy volume toward him from every part of the hall and when finally there was a chance of his voice being heard he said:

Mr. President and Gentlemen of the Convention (great applause). While I greatly appreciate the action of the delegation from New York it is proper for me to say that it is without my approval or consent. (No, no.)

I especially also the manifestation of feeling on the part of the delegations from other states but I feel that it is my duty to decline and now announce to you that for good and sufficient reasons I cannot accept the nomination. (Great applause and cries of "No no. You have got to take it.")

I have not the right to think that not a single man or woman would be nominated by this convention. (Renewed applause and cheering and cries of "No you must you must.") There are gentlemen here whose names have been presented to this convention any one of which names is stronger than my own. (Cries of "No no.") There is no other choice and I ought not in justice to them permit my name to be used. I shall urge further that this convention should proceed to a ballot and nominate from some of those who have been named. In justice to myself, in justice to them, in justice to the party, in justice to [illegible] without my consent. (Great applause.)

He was frequently interrupted by protestants who [illegible] from New York cried out "Yes you can."

"When he said clearly and finally:

"I did not come into this convention as a candidate and I cannot accept the honor" again came the cries of "Yes, you can" in greater volume than before. But they had not the slightest effect.

He left the platform cheered to the echo and surrounded by his friends who pressed forward to grasp his hand.

When the state of Massachusetts was called Hon. George Fred Williams ascended the platform amid considerable applause.

WILLIAMS' SPEECH.

Mr. Chairman and Members of the Committee—We are performing a sacred duty here to day and as God's benediction was almost heard spoken aloud in our deliberations yesterday, so I believe that His blessing will be upon our deliberations now.

I speak for the state of Massachusetts but I wish to point a moral for this country [illegible] and do so in our deliberations. There is no state in the whole union that is entitled to more consideration at the hands of the Democracy of this Union than the state of New York. (Cheers.) The New York Democrats have their internal differences but they have just come to us with one factor of the party representing the progressive side of the other both of them grasping hands in the great union that is necessary for the success of our cause. (Cheers.)

Hill Would Have Done

Had the gentleman from New York (Hill) not insisted upon declining and been named by this convention every Democrat who is worthy of the name would have gone home to work most enthusiastically for him.

We owe a great debt to New York for when we were in a crisis yesterday morning with the rising of the sun New York sent out word from its delegation that there must be no minority report to the convention. (Applause.)

I do not speak here in behalf of the Massachusetts delegation upon a poll Massachusetts has come here for the best man and I second here for the best man but I am permitted to speak for Massachusetts to second a nomination which seems to me desirable in the interest of the party.

There has been presented the name of a man who is the intellectual and moral peer of the candidate for the first place and that man is the Hon. Charles A. Towne.

Merely a Deception

"I know that there are many among the delegates who are under a misapprehension with respect to Mr. Towne. I did not know of my own knowledge that after the campaign of 1896 in which he did such valiant service he desired to abandon the silver Republican organization and to join the Democratic party without reservation but I know now gentlemen that it was upon the request of you leaders of the Democratic party that he was dissuaded from taking that step. [illegible] Mr. Towne would have been standing here with as much right to the name of Democrat as I have to that name or as any man in this audience.

There are several states in this Union in which the balance of power is held by a party or parties that do not denounce [illegible] for our nominee and for our platform they are out effectively in the present in this city to extend the right hand of fellowship to us.

It is Time They Quit.

To Democrats it is time that the Populist party and the silver Republican party ceased to exist and we have the opportunity here to do it by doing the work that will create one solid phalanx to fight the battle of 1900.

We all know that Mr. Towne has not his superior as a public debater in the United States. The Republican party has put for the second place a grand stump performer (laughter) and we need a man for our second place who can attend to the case of Mr. Theodore Roosevelt. There is no man more equal to the task than the Hon. Charles A. Towne. (Great applause.)

After numbers other brief speech the roll call for the first ballot began.

The First Ballot.

Stevenson—Alabama 15, Arkansas 11, California 1, Colorado 8, Connecticut 3, Delaware 3, Florida 4, Georgia 26, Illinois 48, Iowa 26, Indiana 2, Kansas 20, Kentucky 26, Maine 8, Massachusetts 8, Michigan 28, Mississippi 18, Missouri 1, Montana 6, Nebraska 15, New Hampshire 5, Oregon 8, Pennsylvania 1, Rhode Island 8, South Carolina 18, South Dakota 2, Texas 3, Utah 6, Vermont 8, Virginia 24, West Virginia 12, Wisconsin 21, Wyoming 8, Alaska 6, Arizona 1, Indian Territory 6, New Mexico [illegible], Oklahoma 3½, District of Columbia 6. Total 561½.

Towne—Arkansas 5, California 3, Connecticut 1, Idaho 3, Indiana 2, Maine 2, Massachusetts 11, Michigan 1, Minnesota 18, Missouri 1, Nebraska 10, Nevada 2, Oregon 2, Pennsylvania 1, Rhode Island 1, Wisconsin 7, Arizona 1, New Mexico 1, Oklahoma 2½. Total 89½.

Patrick—Ohio 46. Total 46.

Carr—Montana 1, North Carolina 22. Total 23.

Smith—Maryland 16. Total 16.

Hoke—Missouri 1. Total 1.

Daniel—Missouri 1. Total 1.

Hill—All time 12, Delaware 2, Florida 4, Idaho 1, Louisiana 16, Massachusetts 13, Missouri 1, Montana 1, Nevada 1, New Jersey [illegible], New York 72, North Dakota 2, Oregon [illegible]. Total 90.

As soon as it was evident that Stevenson was the choice of the convention the state delegations changed votes to him in rapid succession.

John L. Shea of New York managed to make his voice heard as he called out "New York changes her entire vote from Hill to Stevenson."

This simply pulled out the plug block in both ends and all the staves at one time and the rout that went up was deafening. The Stevenson men danced around in delight.

Pandemonium Reigned

While the changes of the various states were being made pandemonium reigned in the hall. Delegates and alternates stood on their chairs and throughout all of the galleries people were standing and cheering. Practically the entire delegation from New York headed by Mr. Croker left the hall. Women and children and other spectators who had been standing in the aisles during the proceeding and a lot of superfluous special officers and pages swarmed over the delegates section. When order had been partially restored the floor section of the hall bore more the appearance of a miscellaneous gathering than of a political convention.

Sergeant-at-Arms John I. Martin his assistants and the police had the utmost difficulty in clearing the aisles, but the people were finally forced to their places or out of the building.

As soon as quiet was restored J. Milton Turner a prominent negro from Missouri the chairman of the convention of Afro-Americans which only recently nominated Mr. Bryan for president was invited to the platform and briefly addressed the convention.

Routine Work Ended.

J. G. Gray of Texas chairman of the committee on credentials announced that the contesting delegations from the District of Columbia, Indian territory and Oklahoma had been given a fair vote from the districts they represented. However as the delegations had been unable to effect a proper organization on account of internal differences the matter of the election of a national committeeman from those districts he referred back to the committee. The motion prevailed but subsequently on motion of Chairman Jones of the national committee it was reconsidered and laid on the table.

The usual formal resolutions of thanks to Kansas City and to the officers of the convention were [illegible] at 2 [illegible], on motion of Chairman Jones, the national Democratic convention of 1900 adjourned sine die.

VICTOR ITEMS

Special to the Gazette.

Victor, July 6. The family of T. F. Collins state that the report sent out that Mr. Collins committed suicide is incorrect. They say that the revolver was discharged accidentally. Mr. Collins returned to his home in Independence from Cripple Creek on the night of the 4th and died instantly from a gunshot wound. It was reported that he committed suicide. The funeral will be held tomorrow at 10 o'clock at the residence at Independence. The burial will be at Mt. Pisgah cemetery in charge of Undertaker Dunn.

The funeral of little Andrew Gallagher who suffocated Tuesday in the fire which consumed the family home was held yesterday in charge of Undertaker Dunn.

The county commissioners are in this city investigating the assessments made by the deputy county assessors. Property owners who desire any change made in the assessment roll must see the assessors and have the change made at this time or will have to let the figures stand.

F. A. Morse has returned from Missouri where he was called by the death of his father.

JAPAN GIVEN A FREE HAND

Russia Agrees that Full Powers Shall be Delegated.

NEWS FAR FROM REASSURING

Native Christians In Pekin Were Massacred and Similar Scenes Are Occurring Elsewhere.

London, July 7, 2:10 a. m.—The Russian government announces that it will give Japan a free hand to apply military force in China.

The terms of this consent are summarized in a dispatch from St. Petersburg under date of July 6 in reply to an inquiry from the Japanese cabinet regarding the dispatch of Japanese troops to China to lend aid to the foreigners in Pekin.

The Russian government declared on May 31 that it left the Japanese government full liberty of action in this connection as the Tokio cabinet expressed its readiness to act in full accord with the other powers.

It is in consequence of this no doubt that Japan is preparing to embark more troops. Political considerations that were thought to have been influencing the action of the powers are thus laid aside for a moment at least by the governments supposed to have the clearest purpose respecting China's future.

Japan's sending of troops can have little bearing on the fate of the foreigners in Pekin.

Baron Hayashi, the new Japanese minister who arrived in London on Friday, says that 10 days will be probably required for the carrying of troops to China. His belated statements contained these sentences:

"If all the conditions Japan has asked were conceded I see no reason why Japan should not undertake the task of suppressing the trouble. The powers are all agreed in wishing to put down the rebellion but it does not seem that they are agreed on the means.

"From this authoritative utterance it is inferred that Japan does not nominate conditions and that the concert of the powers is a little jangled.

[illegible] Shanghai from these sources especially of the slaughter in the Chinese and Tartar city of thousands of native Christians so that the capital reeks with carnage. The ruthless thirst for blood is spreading in all the northern provinces and wherever there are native Christians the scenes enacted in the capital recur in a less intensified form. Those advices [illegible] regarding the legation forces except a repetition that they are all safe.

The correspondents aver that if the Chinese officials in Shanghai wish to throw light on the real state of affairs in the capital they could do so and therefore the worst reports are accepted as true.

Prince Tuan's coup d'etat is described by the Shanghai correspondent of the Daily Mail as a sequence to the grand council of ministers at which Yung Lu advocated the suppression of the Boxers promptly. The dowager Empress gave her whole support to Yung Lu and a scene of disorder ensued. Prince Tuan passionately intervened, backed by Kang Yi. They rushed from the council and their partisans raised the cry, "Down with the foreigners." The effect was electrical. The eunuchs palace officials of all sorts and most of the populace took up the cry. Prince Tuan and his agents immediately put the emperor and the dowager empress under restraint.

The Pekin correspondent of the Express telegraphing on Thursday says: "There is no longer any doubt that disaster has overtaken the Russian force of 3000 that left Tien Tsin for Pekin on June 11. The Russians had a full field gun complement and carried their own transports. As nothing has been heard of them the inference is assumed that they have been overwhelmed."

Trustworthy news is received to the effect that all the country to the northeast of Pekin is covered with the corpses of men and horses of the western garrisons.

Fighting of a desperate character took place in the immediate neighborhood of Tien Tsin on June 30.

Taku dispatches say an attack in great force is expected at any moment. The Chinese commanders are awaiting the arrival of more guns and reinforcements before making an effort to retake the city.

A dispatch from Shanghai to the Daily Telegraph dated July 5 says the losses of the allies up to June 29 totaled 600.

According to the Daily Telegraph's correspondent in a dispatch dated Thursday, United States Consul McWade has great influence with Li Hung Chang and has persuaded him to issue a proclamation containing detailed instructions to prefects, sub prefects and magistrates. It orders them to detect, behead and otherwise severely punish Boxers. These officials are [illegible] and native Christians. The governors of two Quang's join in the proclamation.

Another proclamation issued by Li Hung Chang directs that persons starting an uprising shall be at once beheaded and that those spreading false rumors shall be severely punished. This latter phrase in a Chinese sense [illegible] by means of a wooden collar. Wholesale executions are expected to follow these proclamations.

Official dispatches from Port Arthur to the Daily Mail under date of July 2 show that the country to the northward is in a state of disturbance and that bands are destroying property. Six pirate ships have been captured by Russian naval vessels at the island of Hilong.

TELLER WEPT ONCE MORE

Enraged Silver Republicans Could Scarcely Be Held in Leash.

WERE KEPT FROM NOMINATING

After Stormy Session Convention Yielded to Leaders and Left Vice Presidency to Committee.

Kansas City, July 6.—After a long and exciting debate during which it looked several times as if Charles A. Towne would be nominated for vice president in spite of his protest against such action the national convention of the Silver Republican party adjourned sine die without making a nomination, the whole matter being referred to the national committee with power to act.

W. J. Bryan was made the unanimous choice of the convention for president during the morning session and it was the intention to complete the ticket in the afternoon by the nomination of former Congressman Towne.

The action of the Democratic convention however in placing Adlai E. Stevenson in nomination took the delegates off their feet but most of them asserted their determination to nominate Towne notwithstanding.

For two hours Senator Teller, former Congressmen Shafroth of Colorado, and Cheadle of Indiana and others made speeches in favor of indorsing the Democratic ticket but it was not until Towne himself appeared and appealed to the convention not to nominate him but to concentrate their forces that the delegates calmed down and the vice presidential nomination was referred to the national committee.

When the Storm Broke.

Two minutes after Chairman Brown called the Silver Republican convention [illegible] its feeling concerning the nomination of Stevenson by howling down Delegate Lewis of Nebraska.

"I believed this morning it was our plain duty to nominate Bryan and Towne," he said, "but I believe now it is our plain duty to indorse Bryan and Stevenson."

A perfect storm of groans and protests arose from the delegates, many of them standing on their chairs, waving their hats and handkerchiefs and they shouted and Mr. Lewis was finally compelled to take his seat.

Mr. Dawson of Nebraska gained the floor and in an eloquent speech pleaded for moderation. "We come here as patriots," he said, "while we have met with a great disappointment yet we must be sober, sensible and resist not wisely but well."

Senator Ransom proceeded at some length in this strain but finally he too was interrupted by the impatient delegates.

"What do you favor," asked one delegate. "Tell us how."

"I favor the nomination of Towne," said Senator Ransom, "but let us not act until we hear from him. He will be here soon."

No Relict Wanted

Webb McNall of Kansas was then recognized. "It is not necessary to go outside of our party for a vice president," said he amid shouts of approval. "Do you gentlemen think to take the tail end of the Cleveland administration? Do you believe it good judgment?"

The hall fairly trembled from the storm of noes.

"Nominate Charles A. Towne," yelled a delegate.

Amid much confusion and the pounding of the chairman's gavel Mr. McNall shouted: "I move that Charles A. Towne be declared the unanimous nominee of the convention."

"I second the nomination," shouted a dozen delegates.

Teller's Tearful Appeal.

"Wait, gentlemen, should Senator Teller," springing to his feet. "We want some calm deliberation."

"We have had it for three days," interrupted a delegate.

"No man should stand in the way of this cause," continued Senator Teller. "I believe this contest involves the life of the republic, a contest for liberty for the existence of free government. Let us wait, let us wait until we hear from Mr. Towne."

"Senator Teller, I would as soon vote for Stevenson as for a black snake," interrupted a Nebraska delegate.

Cheers and hisses greeted this remark.

"Don't, gentlemen," pleaded Senator Teller. "Be moderate."

With his voice betraying deep emotion Senator Teller said: "I am going to support Mr. Bryan and the ticket in every way. I can not for Mr. Bryan, but for the country which I so love," and then Senator Teller, with tears streaming from his eyes, took his seat.

Towne's Appearance

Mr. Foster gained the floor and insisted on the chair putting the question. During the confusion that resulted, Charles A. Towne entered the hall, and in an instant the hall was a pandemonium. Cheer after cheer went up and flags and handkerchiefs were waved by the excited delegates. Towne was immediately surrounded by those on the stage.

"Mr. Towne, we want to nominate you," said an Indiana delegate.

"I don't want you to do it," said Mr. Towne. "I understand what my duty is in this matter."

"We must insist on it," put in another delegate.

"You have no right to refuse," [illegible] "you will break us to pieces."

Mr. Towne, pale-faced, but determined, shook his head emphatically. "Please give me a chance to be heard," shouted Chairman Brown and the delegates one by one took their seats.

Mr. Fleming, a delegate from New Jersey, mounted the platform and demanded recognition. He regretted to say that the proposed conference between a representative from the Populist party and one from the Silver Republican party, with a representative of the national Democratic convention had not been held and for himself, he believed that it was the duty of this convention to go on and complete the ticket by the nomination of Charles A. Towne for vice president.

Mr. Fleming then gave way to Mr. Towne.

Towne Talked for Democrats.

The Silver Republicans have made a good fight, said Mr. Towne. They have been defeated. But," he said, "it is your duty to support the ticket nominated [illegible]

He insisted that there was an issue in the coming election which towers above men and he implored the convention to look at it as he did. He begged them to remember that Bryan was still at the head. The platform of the Democratic party was almost identical, at least in principle, with the platform of the Silver Republican party.

While Mr. Towne was speaking several attempts were made to interrupt him with questions. The convention [illegible] down the attempts until Mr. Towne yielded to the questions, after which Mr. Towne again assured them it was his wish that the convention should not nominate him. The convention gave Mr. Towne most respectful consideration and while he was speaking it was evident that the convention was disposed to follow Mr. Towne's advice and wishes.

Shafroth Also.

Mr. Towne was followed by Delegate Shafroth of Colorado, who favored the support of the ticket nominated by the Democratic convention.

Judge Van Voorhees of Ohio also pleaded for the indorsement of the Democratic ticket.

Meanwhile the greatest confusion prevailed. Delegates gathered in groups on the floor and excitedly discussed the situation. Senator Dubois was recognized and said:

"While there are many sad hearts here today, no one feels more keenly than myself the disaster which has overtaken us today, but we must view it as our leader, Charles Towne, wants us to. I move that the whole question be left to the committee with plenary powers."

McNall Persistent.

Webb McNall, amid shouts of disapproval moved the nomination of Towne.

"I never heard of a national committee being given plenary powers while a national convention was in session," he said. "Let Mr. Towne decline after nomination and then let the national committee act."

Judge Suppler of Iowa appealed for moderation and compliance with Mr. Towne's wishes. "Do not condemn Mr. Stevenson because Mr. Cleveland was distasteful to you," he said. "Let us take a higher plane."

Chairman Brown urged the delegations "not to crucify Mr. Towne." Amid much confusion the previous question was called for. It was on Senator Dubois' motion and by an almost unanimous vote it was carried and the convention adjourned sine die.

JONES RE-ELECTED AS THE NATIONAL CHAIRMAN

Kansas City, July 6.—The national committee of the Democratic party met in the Kansas City [illegible] adjournment of the convention and immediately organized.

Senator Jones remained absent until the preliminaries were over. Taggart of Indiana, who has been mentioned as a possible chairman nominated Senator Jones for re-election and he received a unanimous vote.

The senator was sent for and in accepting the chairmanship said that the committee entered the campaign in much better shape than four years ago. Then the members were all new and untried in party affairs which had been in the hands of men who were overthrown in the great issues dominating the 1896 convention. Now they had a complete organization and were ready to go ahead and make the best fight possible. He complimented the action of the convention both as to platform and the candidates.

The matter of selecting the executive committee was left to Chairman Jones, who will make the appointments after he has had time for consideration. It is understood that many of the members of the last committee will be chosen.

A committee consisting of Tillman of South Carolina, Johnson of Indiana, Williams of Massachusetts, Carey of Wyoming and Wilson of Idaho was appointed to confer with representatives of the Populist and Silver Republican parties as to the best plan of campaign.

The contests for national committeemen from the District of Columbia and the Indian and Oklahoma territories were referred to a committee consisting of Jones of Arkansas, Blanchard of Louisiana, Stone of Missouri, Taggart of Indiana, Gahan of Illinois and Ryan of Wisconsin. They will not take up the contests until there is an opportunity to make a thorough investigation of the cases and ascertain what the Democrats of the district and the territories desire.

A delegation from Columbus presented the claims of that city as headquarters for the campaign. The matter was referred to the executive committee but Senator Jones told the delegation that the city which presented the best facilities for carrying on the campaign would be selected whether the committee liked the city or not.

INCOME TAX OMITTED.

Kansas City, July 6.—The income tax was left out of the platform as adopted by the convention and the attention of the Democratic leaders was called to it early in the day. Senator Jones, chairman of the committee on resolutions, intended to make a motion to have the income tax provision inserted. He did not make the motion however and it is not in the platform. It was stated tonight that the reaffirmation of the principles in the Chicago platform included the income tax provision.

PUEBLO

Apparently Clear Case of Infanticide Discovered.

Will Be Thoroughly Investigated—Lime Rock Combine Has Been Formed to Force Higher Prices.

Special to the Gazette

Pueblo July 6—A case of foul murder came to light this morning when Thaddeus S Clinkscale of No 514 West Sixth street discovered the body of a female child wrapped in a sheet in his backyard. Mr Clinkscale who is a colored man and the proprietor of the Merchants Hand Laundry of this city, was attracted about 7 o'clock this morning by a bundle wrapped in a sheet lying in the midst of a pile of wire near his back fence. When the sheet was unwrapped the body of a new born male child was revealed. The police and coroner were notified and the body was removed to the morgue. From indications it is safe to say that the child had been dead 12 hours. Mr Clinkscale declares that the body was certainly not there Thursday night and he says that he heard or saw no one about his premises during the night.

Coroner Fugard gave it as his opinion after viewing the body that the child had been wrapped in the sheet immediately after birth and that it had been dropped into Mr Clinkscale's yard some time during the night. Neglect in such cases has been held to be equivalent to murder.

The officials declare that they will use every effort to locate the infanticide.

Unwise Celebrants Were Let Off Easily—Drilling Contest Called Off Cricket Meeting Called

Special to the Gazette

Cripple Creek, July 6—The trial of Fred Hill Will Sax Charles Carroll, Mickey O'Brien and Tony Dyer the five boys charged with the burglary of Hinds store on the night of the 30th of last March was concluded at 11 o'clock this morning in the district court. The jury after being out until 2 o'clock returned a verdict of acquittal.

All except O'Brien had been in jail since they were arrested a few days after the store was robbed. Hill and Carroll a few weeks ago escaped from jail but were captured soon afterwards. The force of the sheriff's office had collected considerable evidence against the boys sufficient it was thought to convict them.

George Q Richmond was called to assist J B McDonald in the prosecution and Engley and P C Early represented the defense. As soon as the boys were released Under Sheriff Harrington arrested Carroll and Saxon on the charge of felo breaking for which they will be required to stand trial.

officials declare that they will use every effort to locate the infanticide.

An Adverse Suit.

Annie F Parson began suit in the district court today against the American Commission company to recover $89 14 for advertising cuts furnished weekly for one year.

Were Let Off Easy

Police Magistrate Whiting was inclined to be lenient with those who overdid the matter of celebrating the national holiday and who were charged with drunkenness. Jack Gearing was one of these. Officer Hoskins stated that Gearing was about the drunkest man he ever saw when he arrested him. The judge imposed a fine of $ and costs but as he declared that the celebration had made him a bankrupt the fine was suspended on good behavior.

Charles Clark was found begging on the streets this morning by Officer Hoskins. He denied the charge but confessed that he was drunk. He said he came from Colorado Springs on the 3rd to look for work and incidently to celebrate the Fourth. He was without money the judge suspended a fine of [illegible] to leave town or go to jail. He left town.

Frank Nelson who was charged with being drunk and disorderly on account of it being the national holiday.

A marriage license was issued yesterday to W G Robinson age 21 and Miss Clara Bruce age 18 both of Victor.

Ed Chamberlain who entered the strychnine drilling contest with Mike Finn which was to have taken place in the Elkton [illegible] could not be here today and the committee called the contest off.

The Future Boer-Land

Discussing a question following the war writes Colonel Sir George White the hero of Ladysmith in the July number of Success that there will be a great boom in the Cape. This struggle has drawn the attention of Both North to South Africa and people are beginning to realize some of the vast resources there which are only waiting to be developed. I confess that I was myself surprised when I went to the Cape and saw what wonderful progress had been made in the few years. Where there were formerly desolate wilderness there are now cultivated farms and bustling villages. Where there was not formerly even a farmer there are now whole towns and this wonderful change is sure to go on more rapidly now than ever before. [illegible] for several years as to whether or not there would be any war that men of wealth hesitated about making movements and then ensued a falling off in immigration. Now that settled conditions are about to exist again I prophesy that there will be a great rush of people to South Africa. That whole country is likely to be a good one for [illegible] to make his fortune. There are whole districts which are practically unsettled and undeveloped. There is certainly a wonderful opportunity awaiting men who have had experience in farming. There are great tracts of land in the vicinity of Ladysmith which are very productive. [illegible] good locations for fruit orchards. I fully agree with Rudyard Kipling when he says there ought to be a chance for some of our British volunteers to remain in South Africa and become farmers. As the farms increase there will be a demand for merchants and prosperous villages are sure to spring up in time.

The Boers did not apparently have to work very hard in order to accumulate their wealth. If they have been successful Englishmen and Americans should be successful and I think they will be. I cannot say that there is much truth in the recent assertions that Americans are not good colonizers and can never settle in any great extent in the new colonies of Porto Rico and the Philippines. I am sure that while I was stationed in India I met a lot of many American [illegible] who were doing there and were very successful in colonizing. I am sure that Americans will be at least as good colonizers as Englishmen in the Philippines and Porto Rico. The United States possesses enough people to spare some for such [illegible] many more going there than are already resident in the various colonies at the Cape. As America came out of its Spanish war with flying colors and is meeting its problems successfully so shall we meet ours.

Note: The above count includes all coupons received at the Gazette office up to 10 a. m. yesterday.

How to Vote.

Cut out the voting coupon printed in the Gazette each day, inclose the coupons in an envelope, seal the envelope and write plainly thereon the following:

For .....
From .....
Dated .....
Remarks .....

Under the head of "Remarks" candidates may be announced and any claims for support that friends of candidates may desire to have printed in the Gazette should also be stated under this head on the outside of the envelope or sent in an envelope separate from the one enclosing coupons. Each envelope received will be sealed the same as an express money package in the presence of the party depositing the vote when delivered in person, and only the end of the envelope will be opened for the verification of the count of inclosed coupons, leaving the package practically intact for the committee who will finally count and verify the Gazette's preliminary count.

Rules of the Contest.

First, Any young married couple, acceptable to the Gazette management, who resides in El Paso or Teller county, is eligible as a candidate. By young married couple shall be understood all married pairs whose combined age does not exceed 60 years, and the date of whose marriage is between August 31st, 1899, and August 31st, 1900.

Second, No one in the employ of the Gazette or of anyone who may donate prizes will be permitted to work in the interest of any of the candidates but must remain strictly neutral, except that the solicitors for the Gazette may receive subscriptions for the Gazette from the candidate or their friends for the period of one week or more.

Third, The subscription price will be 15 cents per week, or 60 cents per month, or three months for $1.75, delivered by carrier or sent to any address by mail, and on each subscription blank must be written plainly the name and address of the party to whom the Gazette is to be sent.

Fourth, The coupons must be neatly cut out of the Gazette each day and either mailed to the Gazette, Colorado Springs, Colo., or deposited in the voting box at the Gazette business office. Coupons sent by mail will be at sender's risk, and to better insure delivery should be sent by express, charges prepaid. Each coupon may be voted for any one of the candidates in the contest and may be voted at any time during the contest.

Fifth, The contest will cover a period of 30 days from June 30 to August 31st, 1900, both dates inclusive, and the voting will close promptly at 12 o'clock noon on Saturday, September 1st, 1900, and after this time coupons cannot be voted, and any received will not be counted.

Sixth, A preliminary count of the votes cast from day to day will be made by the contest manager and announced in the Gazette each day. However, after the last week shall each candidate may appoint a representative and these representatives shall constitute a committee who shall aid the contest manager in making the final count. Said committee may, if not satisfied with the contest manager's count, canvass the whole vote. A majority of the committee shall have the right to announce the result of the standing of each candidate in the contest, and such decision shall be final and binding upon all interested parties. In case of a tie vote the contest manager may cast the deciding vote.

Seventh, The coupon shall be printed each day during the contest in the daily Gazette only, and no papers in large quantities shall be sold containing the coupon, and only the usual number of copies sold each day at 5 cents per copy at the news-stands and by the newsboys on the street shall be sold, thereby confining the contest to coupons cut from subscribers' papers so far as this can be controlled by the Gazette management.

Eighth, All Gazettes spoiled in printing, containing the coupon, shall be burned by the contest manager, and all copies used by the Gazette for the files shall have the coupon cancelled.

Ninth, Candidates may announce for the contest up to and including Sunday, July 1st, 1900, after said date no further announcements will be received. Candidates may withdraw from the contest at any time, but cannot announce such withdrawal in the Gazette as being in the interest of any other contestant; nor can any portion of the votes cast for candidates withdrawing be transferred to any other contestant.

Tenth, These rules may be amended at any time during the contest by a majority vote of all the contestants at any meeting of the candidates duly called by the contest manager; subject, however, to the approval of the Gazette management.

The Moose Hunter.

(From Forest and Stream.)

There is no better test of what there is of a man than to strip him of the conventionalities and accessories of civilization and leave him to his own resources in the heart of a wilderness like that of Maine. Some of those whom the world esteems great and wise would starve forthwith, while many of those who live and die unknown to fame would "wax and grow fat." There is one denizen of the Maine woods that stands pre-eminent to all others which claim the attention of sportsmen. Pre-eminent in size, pre-eminent in the uncouth grandeur of his gigantic bulk, pre-eminent in the time, patience, labor and skill involved in his capture, and pre-eminent in power to thrill the steadiest nerves and cause the blood to flow in quick throbbing beats like quicksilver in the veins.

The sportsman who has not confronted a bull moose in his native wilds has missed an experience which is well worth the best year of his life. I speak advisedly, for I have been there. Imagine if you can a huge bundle of muscular power, reared on great stilt-like legs to a height of 7 feet, with bristling mane, and eyes which gleam viciously from beneath broad, massive antlers which sway with the huge head 8 to 10 feet above the ground.

Imagine yourself standing, if you have strength to stand, in front of this frightful apparition; and only a few yards distant, with the knowledge that if you don't kill him he will very likely kill you. Your heart thumps so painfully that your ears fairly ache with its pulsations, the blood racing through your veins like molten lead, the sweat starting from every pore in your skin, while your brain labors in vain to regain control of the wild tumult which perverses you. Imagine all this if you can, and then multiply the sensations which it calls up two or three million times, more or less, and you will have a result which approaches the reality in magnitude. The man who sends every bullet straight to the mark under such conditions as these should be excused if he brags a little about it afterward. He should also be excused if he does some very foolish things when he sees the awe-inspiring monster collapse under the paralyzing shocks of the well-directed bullets—i. e., dropping his rifle and trying to hug himself. Attempting to turn summersaults which only land him on his head. Trying to shout the great news to everybody within a hundred miles, and only succeeding in making a poor little squeak somewhere down in his throat. Trying, but let us drop the curtain. The ethics of sportsmanship forbid me to disclose all the absurd things even the most sedate and dignified of our craft will do on such an occasion.

The Battle of Dunbar.

In describing the battle of Dunbar, in study in the Century, Mr. Morley borrows the pens of Cromwell and his secretary:

"The English and the Scots faced one another across a brook with steep banks, only passable at a narrow ford and here the fight was. The front of Dunbar has been described once for all by Carlyle, in one of the famous masterpieces of modern letters, with a force of imagination, a faithfulness in detail, a moral depth, a poetic beauty that help to atone for the perplexing [illegible] and whimsical. That soldier that fear that fine biography. It is vain for others even to attempt to turn into poetry the prose of politics and war. The battle opened with a cannonade from the English guns, followed by a charge of horse under Lambert. The enemy were in a good position, had the advantage of guns and foot against Lambert's horse, and at first had the best of it in the struggle. Before the English foot could come up, Cromwell says, 'the enemy made a gallant resistance, and there was a very hot dispute at swords' point between our horses and theirs.' Then the first line of foot came up, and 'after they had discharged their duty (being overpowered with the enemy) receiving some repulse which they soon recovered.' For my own regiment did come seasonably in, and at the push of pike did put the stoutest regiment the enemy had there, which proved a great amazement to the residue of their foot. The horse in the meantime did, with a great deal of courage and spirit beat back all opposition; charging through the bodies of the enemy's horse and of their foot, who were after the first repulse given, made by the lord of hosts as stubble to their swords. The best of the enemy's horse being broken through and through in less than an hour's dispute, their whole army being put into confusion, it became a total rout, our men having the chase and execution of them near eight miles.

Such is the whole story of this memorable hour's fight as told by the victor. Rushworth, then Cromwell's secretary, is still more summary. 'About twilight the general advanced with the army, and charged them both in the valley and on the hill. The battle was very fierce for the time; one part of their battalion stood very stiffly to it, but the rest was presently routed. I never beheld a more terrible charge of foot than was given by our army; our foot alone making the Scots foot give ground for three-quarters of a mile together.'"

THE PARAMOUNT ISSUE.

WHEN the Democratic convention in Kansas City sidetracked silver and declared that "the burning issue of imperialism growing out of the Spanish war involves the very existence of the republic and the destruction of our free institutions. We regard it as the paramount issue of the campaign." It forgot or intentionally ignored several things.

The main issue of every campaign is not to be found in party platforms for it is the ability of the parties to administer the affairs of the country in a satisfactory manner, and the chief question for the voters to decide this fall is whether the national affairs shall be placed in the hands of the party with the record of success, or the party with the record of failure.

Aside from this main issue there is another one which cannot be unceremoniously pushed out of the way or forgotten, much as the Democrats would like to have it done, and that is the issue of prosperity.

Four years ago the Republican party made certain pledges and promises. It proposed certain remedies for evils then existing and prophesied that if its plans were approved by the people certain results would follow. For the same evils the Democrats proposed another remedy and asserted that the Republican plan was ineffective and impossible. They declared that prosperity could not exist until silver was restored to its place as a money metal, and protested against the enactment of a protective tariff as injurious to business and contrary to the wishes of the American people. The progress of events has shown that the Republicans were right and the Democrats were wrong. Everything has happened as the Republicans said it would and nothing has happened that the Democrats prophesied, and under these circumstances the Republicans may fairly and justly claim that the record of their successful administration of the national affairs is one of the leading issues of the campaign, and that it forms their chief title to the confidence of the country and to their retention in their present position.

But along with the accomplishment of their pledges the Republicans have called the attention of the country to their success in meeting new questions which have come into our politics within the past four years. Regarding these the national Republican platform says:

"In accepting by the treaty of Paris the just responsibility of our victories in the Spanish war, the president and the senate won the undoubted approval of the American people. No other course was possible than to destroy Spain's sovereignty throughout the West Indies and in the Philippine islands. That course created our responsibility before the world, and with the unorganized population whom our intervention had freed from Spain, to provide for the maintenance of law and order, and for the establishment of good government, and for the performance of international obligations. Our authority could not be less than our responsibility, and wherever sovereign rights were extended it became the high duty of the government to maintain its authority to uphold law, to secure order, and to confer the blessings of liberty and civilization upon all the rescued peoples. The largest measure of self-government consistent with their welfare and our duties, shall be secured to them by law. To Cuba independence and self-government were assured in the same voice by which war was declared and to the letter this pledge shall be performed."

It is the opposing view of the Democrats which is termed by them "Anti-Imperialism," and is declared by their national platform to be the paramount issue of the campaign.

It is unfortunate for the country that there should not be, in handling such an important matter, a more exact agreement between the opposing sides as to what constitutes that which the Republicans call "expansion" and the Democrats "imperialism." Certainly there is no part of the American people which aims at a deliberate overthrow of our free institutions and the substitution therefor of an imperial form of government, and the sentences in the Democratic platform which intimate any purpose of this kind on the part of the Republicans are entirely false and misleading. On the other hand the Democrats take especial pains to declare that they are "not opposed to expansion when it takes in desirable territory which can be erected into states of the union, and whose people are willing and fit to become American citizens."

What then is the essential difference between the two parties?

In regard to the Philippines, the Democratic platform declares in favor of giving to the Filipinos, first: a stable government; second, independence; third, protection from outside interference.

The Republican platform declares in favor of "the largest measure of self-government consistent with their welfare and our duties."

"The Republican party proposes to be guided by facts; the Democratic by theories.

"The Republican party proposes to take things as they are; the Democratic as it would like them to be.

"The Republicans propose to do the best they can under the circumstances; the Democrats propose to undo everything the Republicans have done and to oppose everything the Republicans have undertaken.

"The Republicans propose to face the future unhampered by promises, while the Democrats propose as a preliminary to tie their hands by unnecessary pledges of independence to a people who have not yet demonstrated their fitness for it.

"The Republicans propose to face the grave problems of the future with earnest faith in the ability, the honesty and the patriotism of the American people, and to secure every possible advantage for our people wherever it can be done without violation of international good faith or injury to our own people and institutions.

"The Democrats propose to settle the destinies of millions and to throw away inestimable advantages by the enunciation of a political maxim that is contradicted by a hundred well known facts of our national experience.

Expansion for the Republicans is the declaration of what has been achieved for the nation's interests and the principle under which the development of our opportunities should be sought.

Anti-imperialism as presented by the Democrats is in part an unwarrantable aspersion of Republican motives; in part a misrepresentation of facts for which there is no basis; in part the statement of political platitudes which are contrary to national experience; and in part practical folly which finds its only reason in a determination to oppose everything done and planned by the Republicans.

Bryan and Towne represented the Populist idea of union.

But Bryan and Stevenson represents the Democratic idea of Democracy.

The Democracy went back four years for a president and eight years for a vice president. But it made the platform up out of its own head.

No one is likely to call Stevenson the Roosevelt of Democracy.

AND STEVENSON.

BY the time the Democratic party had settled its differences on the silver question by inserting a silver plank to suit the west and then sidetracking it to suit the east, it was not in a mood for any further experiments. It hastened to the nomination of William J. Bryan in accordance with instructions received from state conventions, and then adopted the easy course of nominating Adlai Stevenson.

They might have done better and they might have done a good deal worse.

Stevenson is as harmless as a dose of bread pills, and as Grover Cleveland's side partner in the national calamity administration carefully abstained from anything like "pernicious activity" of any kind. His present claim to consideration from the party consists in the fact that at the time a majority of the Democrats in the country were praying that Cleveland might be struck by lightning, there was a very strong belief that Stevenson was a different kind of a man.

By nominating Stevenson the Democrats have done all that they could to drive away from their party the Silver Republicans and the Populists. If they had taken an eastern man they might have been excused under the pleas of party necessity, but to take a western Democrat with a fair silver record was a direct intimation that the Democratic idea of fusion was to get all and give nothing, or else that fusion as a political principle is played out.

By refusing to indorse the nomination the Silver Republican convention has already expressed its opinion of the Democratic nominee, and its action will have an important effect upon Silver Republican voters.

By nominating Stevenson the convention also gave up the hope of carrying New York and the eastern states that are apt to vote as New York does. The logic of the situation pointed to New York and the only hope of party success was in nominating a man who could save that state. But the plain truth of the matter is that there was no New York Democrat who was of the required prominence and ability who was willing to risk his political existence with Bryan and Bryanism. The candidates offered by New York were nobodies or carefully planned traps to mislead the convention.

Under such circumstances the choice of the convention narrowed down to Towne or Stevenson, and Stevenson was chosen because he was a Democrat, and because it was not believed that he would add particularly to the load that the Democracy has assumed, and because the party had made up its mind that it was better to take chances of offending its former allies among Silver Republicans and Populists, rather than to risk the opprobrium that would come from nominating a Silver Republican who was already on a Populist ticket.

THE DEMOCRATIC PROGRAMME.

THE Democratic platform, as printed in the Gazette, occupies 44½ inches of column space, of which 14½ inches are devoted to the "paramount issue" "anti-imperialism," and 1½ inches to the silver plank, which was the leading feature of the platform of 1896.

The space assigned to the various topics may be of interest, as indicating the relative importance in the Democratic mind of the different subjects upon which the party thought wise to declare its sentiments:

Plank.	Inches.
Anti-imperialism	14½
The Monroe Doctrine	2¼
Militarism	8¼
The Trusts	1½
Silver and the Chicago Platform	2½
Currency bill	1¼
Labor	½
Direct legislation	4¾
Pensions, Nicaragua canal and six others	2¾
British and Boers	1¾
Alleged extravagance	1¼
Closing remarks	44¼
Total

Judging by length the Democrats are ten times as much interested in anti-imperialism as in free silver; they are more than five times as much opposed to trusts as to the gold standard; the war in South Africa is of twice as much importance as the crime of '73, while the alleged extravagance of the Republican congress and the usual Democratic objection to a surplus surpass by at least a quarter of an inch the reassertion of the Chicago platform, silver and all.

If the order of arrangement is to be taken as indicative of the prominence of the various topics, it will be seen that the settlement of the affairs of the Philippines, Cuba and Puerto Rico is considered to be the matter first deserving of attention. Next in importance is the restoration of the Monroe doctrine, which in the Democratic opinion has been impaired by Republican "imperialism." Next in importance is the reduction of the standing army to a number barely sufficient to garrison the forts and to keep in check Indians and floters. Next in order are the trusts. And when all these things are attended to the Democratic party will see what it can do towards the restoration of the "money of the constitution."

The arrangement of the platform as well as the space allotted to the various subjects gives conclusive evidence that the platform is a compromise intended to deceive voters, and especially those of the west. Silver has been sidetracked, and so effectively that the Democratic party hopes there will be no difficulty in convincing the voters of the east that it has no real intention of reviving the financial agitation. But the declaration in favor of silver is there, just the same, and in the western states this will be exaggerated if possible until it is made to appear as the principal thing in the platform.

In order to retain western votes the Democracy has dishonestly adopted a plank which it has no intention whatever of carrying out, and it intends to plead the insincerity of its declaration as a means of getting votes from those opposed to silver.

THE PIKE'S PEAK CATERPILLARS.

THE Pike's Peak caterpillars seem destined to have as great a vogue as Sergeant O'Keefe's mountain rats.

There were caterpillars there to be sure, and naturally enough some of them fell into the streams, but the prompt and vigorous efforts of the Colorado Springs water department protected the supply of this city and minimized the danger except to those who suffered from congestion of the imagination as a result of sensational advertisements promulgated by the purveyors of the waters of various springs.

Now, however, the excitement is nearly or quite at an end, the caterpillars have disappeared and the water no longer needs special effort for its protection.

But now is the time when the sensationalist writer begins to get in his work, and as usual it starts with the Denver papers. Two young men from the capital city, one of whom is said to be connected with the Y. M. C. A., are said to have supplied the story of a mountain where caterpillars lay banked like snow drifts and progress was impossible. It matters little whether the traveler was "stuffing" the reporter or whether the reporter was "improving his copy, the Republican was ready of course to print anything that would be detrimental to Colorado Springs without verifying its facts, however preposterous they might be, and the story will doubtless be published with additions and comments all over the country as an indication that Colorado Springs is not a good place for water drinking this summer.

FROM THE STATE PRESS

Columbines in profusion grow on all of the hills surrounding the city. It is a beautiful flower, the state flower, so decided by a vote of the people of the state of Colorado. It is greatly sought, and there is no reason why it should not flourish hereabouts since it is native to this region and altitude.

But unless the flowers are protected, they will soon become extinct. The picking of them does no harm, but the careless gatherers, who pull up the plants by the roots, are responsible for the fact that every year there are less and less columbines in the state.

When the plant is pulled up by the roots it is forever destroyed; when only the flower is picked no damage is done more flowers will follow, and the seeds for hundreds more will fall upon the ground, and be distributed by the winds to spring up and multiply, making a veritable table flower garden of the hills and mountains of the state.

The ruthless destruction of the plants by pulling them up by the roots is little beauty of the mountains, and will in time make extinct one of the most beautiful flowers in existence.—(Cripple Creek Times (Citizen).

The nomination of President McKinley was a just recognition of the conspicuously able services rendered by the president in an administration that had to deal with many great civil questions and unexpected military trials, together with foreign complications that have rarely beset a president of the United States. His nomination was not only a merited reward, but it was sound politics. The masses of Republican voters thought of no one else for the place. The real test of this question rests upon the eligibility and force of others mentioned for the honor. The only man ever even thought of as a possible rival of the president for first place on the ticket was Governor Roosevelt. Yet even the most earnest admirers of Roosevelt are practically agreed that he will be a better candidate for the presidency in 1904 than he would now. Certainly these men must all agree that McKinley and Roosevelt together form a ticket that will prove invincible.—(Rocky Ford Republican.

The Sioux Falls convention for presiding officer had Thomas M. Patterson.

Philadelphia convention had Senator E. Wolcott.

Silver Republican convention will have Senator Teller.

Democratic state convention will have, in all probability, Governor Thomas.

When all is consummated she will have rather an unique record. One state have the presiding position in all the national conventions in one campaign. It will be without a precedent in the 125 years of political history.

The point to be illustrated is the supreme one that Colorado is a great national factor. She is not only important as a state in politics, but she is fortunate in having among her citizens men of brains in all parties who are capable of not only doing themselves credit, but in reflecting credit upon the state.—(Cripple Creek Times-Citizen).

War clouds seem to be hovering over the entire universe, and well-posted men are viewing the spectacle with interest, and are silent as to the final outcome. Biblical students say it is the fulfillment of the prophecies. One thing is certain, peace conferences and the settlement of national difficulties by arbitration seems to have been a dismal failure, and the old idea that might is strong must rule the weak is still in force. Some thinkers predict that in the not far distant future there will be a test of supremacy between the Anglo-Saxon race and the balance of the world. Many prophecies are ventured, but no remedies have yet been applied that have successfully quelled the war fever or that will dispel the presentiment of an approaching crisis.—(Salida Record.

Inclosed in the Colorado Springs Gazette of the 4th inst. is a picture of William McKinley, president of the United States and nominee of the G. O. P. to succeed himself. The picture is the prime of view it is well gotten up and no doubt is good to look at by those who are inclined by an admiration of the gentleman, but as he is not the particular William whom the Populist heart desires to see in occupation of the presidential chair, nor yet one who has a hold on Populistic affections, we stand ready to hand it over to anyone who can appreciate it and value it, as the Gazette doubtless thinks is its due from a Republican standpoint, and of whom we are glad to say their numbers are not legion in this vicinity.—(Ridgway Populist.

Real estate has always been the safest investment that could be made, and the greatest fortunes in America have been made in that way. Especially in a new and undeveloped country, such as Routt county, the one who puts his money into real estate can hardly make a mistake if he is prepared to hold on for a short time. All values are at their lowest level; the increase will be large and sure. That this fact is being recognized is shown by the number of investments that have been made here this year, both in town lots and in ranches. It has already exceeded the record of any previous full year.—(Steamboat Springs Pilot.

I am a Democrat. I did visited Colonel Bryan at his home in Lincoln, Neb., Sunday. The proposed platform was read to him and although he did not like the wording, he was pleased with the general tenor. But what's the odds? Cleveland was nominated on a silver platform, was elected on it and then spit on the platform before he even took his seat.—(Boulder Herald.

Without reference to politics, Colorado can congratulate Governor Thomas on his selection as temporary chairman of the Democratic national convention. Governor Thomas is not much on the "strenuous life," but he can deliver an admirable political address. For several reasons we commiserate with Mayor Rose, of Milwaukee.—(Leadville Herald-Democrat.

Denver's charter should be so amended as to allow of an election once a week. Then the tough element would be supplied with more work on the streets in exchange for votes. The man who would object to cleaning the streets with elections is opposed to good government and the great cause of 16 to 1.—(Denver Searchlight.

Every Democrat in Colorado, and everybody else in Colorado as well, ought to feel proud of the distinction conferred upon our public governor by the national committee of the Democratic party in his selection for temporary chairman of convention that is to name the next president of the United States at Kansas City today.—(Golden Transcript.

The attempt of the Arapahoe county politicians to force the harmony committee to adjudicate the past differences between Gov. Thomas and Chairman Maloney will result in harm unless abandoned. The committee was simply given power to prevent future difficulties, not to patch up old ones.—(Gunnison People's Champion.

The ovations given Governor Roosevelt on his trip to the Rough Riders' reunion at Oklahoma City are indicative of the popular storm to which he is held. At every station enthusiastic crowds awaited the arrival of his train, and whenever the opportunity offered made no speeches.—(Loveland Reflector.

Injured Man Found High on Cheyenne

"There's a mad up on Cheyenne mountain who is terribly hurt, and I can't get him up to the road and he will die pretty soon if he doesn't have help. He may be dead now."

It was a man from Cheyenne mountain who entered the sheriff's office breathless yesterday afternoon and gave the above information. He informed Under Sheriff Fitts that he had found a man below the road where it reaches its highest point on Cheyenne mountain and that the man was terribly bruised and cut. The injured man, he said, was so heavy that it was impossible for two men to get him up to the road.

Found Him at Wade's.

Under Sheriff Fitts summoned the county physician and started for the point that had been described. They found the place with no difficulty, a spot where the road is built on the side of a very precipitous canon, the bank sloping almost perpendicularly from the road. Descending for 100 feet they found much blood. They found a pair of shoes on the road and a pair of socks at the point where they found the blood, but they could find no man.

Proceeding up the road they found him at Wade's place, nearly three miles beyond, four men having removed him from his perilous position to that road house. The physician made a hurried examination and sewed up a severe cut on the side of the face, and expressed the opinion that the man was considerably under the influence of liquor.

He seemed dazed and could give no account of the fall he had received or of what was the cause of it.

Think He Was Robbed.

The man was placed in a wagon and brought to Colorado Springs, where he was made comfortable at the county jail. The physician regarded him as better off there until the undoubted effects of the liquor passed away, after which, if an examination showed serious injuries, he could be taken to the hospital.

The man's name is Swan Johnson and from the papers in his possession it is supposed that he is a sub-contractor under Orman and Crook. He was with out money and the opinion of those who are familiar with all the circumstances is that he was sitting on the edge of the road when some one came along unnoticed, and struck him on the head causing him to fall nearly 150 feet down the canon side, in which he received his cuts.

An effort will be made to ascertain the facts in the case today.

Will Harness Water In the Grand Valley

While on his wedding trip, representative George Smith of Mesa county in the Twelfth general assembly, received some gratifying news. He was at the Alamo yesterday when he received information from England to the effect that a gigantic scheme to harness part of the water in the Grand valley would be accepted by capitalists whom he visited a year ago on the other side of the Atlantic. Information also came that prompted the assurance from Mr. Smith that the scheme he was engineering among Colorado capitalists, to open the Grand valley, was about to be launched. Taking it as a whole, Mr. Smith is about the happiest bridegroom claiming residence on the western slope.

Railway for Farm Products.

The plan, when carried out, will put 80,000 acres of rich soil in cultivation under an irrigation system that will be the first of its size in the world to be run by pumps, and the farmers will enjoy the facility of an electric railroad round-about the Grand Valley that will afford a convenient shipping of their product to any of the towns on the western slope. At the same time, a natural water-way will be turned so as to strike a fall of 110 feet which will be harnessed for power and light, and mines adjoining this remarkable work will produce the fuel necessary for the enterprises.

"It is all settled," said Mr. Smith at the hotel yesterday. "We have received word from Europe to the effect that the water power and electrical railroad scheme will go through without trouble.

Big Thing for Western Slope.

"It will be the greatest improvement the western slope has ever seen or will probably see. The electrical plant and railway is which the English capital is interested will involve an expenditure of upwards of $250,000. In a measure the two companies will operate in conjunction. The English syndicate will take water from the Grand river and carry it six miles to a point where there is a fall of 110 feet to the Grand Valley ditch. At this point three-quarters of a mile of pipe will be put in and a power plant erected. Then an electric railroad will form a loop about the valley, taking in Palisades, Fruita, Grand Junction and the other cities, affording easy shipping facilities for the ranchmen, who would otherwise have to haul by wagon long distances to the markets and the beet sugar factory at Grand Junction. In wet seasons the roads over there become worked up badly and wagon traffic would be very difficult, especially in the new territory.

"The power plant will have a capacity at the start of 3,000 horse power, and the water that comes through the pipe will be utilized in the ditch below.

What the Power Can Do.

"The Colorado syndicate now owns extensive coal lands at the mouth of the valley, and we closed a deal yesterday with a St. Louis company for two monster pumps that will be shipped to us at once for irrigating a part of the 80,000 acres of land that is chiefly owned by small companies and individuals but is barren in most places because of absence of any irrigation system. By means of the pumps we can take the water from the river at the mouth of the valley and distribute it over the land. Each pump will take up 6,500,000 gallons of water per day. We have already fixed a rate for the right of 250 per acre for one inch perpetual, with an annual assessment of $1.50 per acre to keep up expenses. The pumps will irrigate 20,000 acres of land. By using the slack from the mines, and selling the balance of the coal, the pumps can be run much cheaper. Our estimate on the cost of fuel is 50 cents a ton at the outside.

"I have not the slightest doubt that the entire 80,000 acres will be rapidly settled and put under cultivation. The supply of water is inexhaustible—it will irrigate every foot of the valley and leave much to waste—and it will be only a short time until more pumps will have to be put in."

Mr. Smith has worked on his schemes for several years, and immediately after the last legislature went to Europe to arrange the electric line and power syndicate. He is here now with his bride enjoying the wonders of the Pike's Peak region, and will return to Grand Junction in a few days.

WILL CELEBRATE TODAY

Fourth of July will be celebrated at Broadmoor today. The rains on Wednesday necessitated the postponement of most of the exhibition there. This afternoon the children will have their usual dance and in addition there will be the exhibitions on the lake. The swimming race for a badge will be pulled off and Parks and Lewis will make their high dive. During the afternoon the Brewers will give their songs, dances and cake-walks.

This evening there is to be a fine display of fireworks. It will excel the one on Wednesday evening, for that one had been abandoned until the last minute because of the storm, and then the rain coming on brought it to an end. If the weather is anything like it has been in the past two days a big crowd will be out. Dancing will close the evening. The Brewers will come on with their specialties about 9 o'clock.

Sunday night Tom Richards sings, and his programme is to be of old English melodies. His singing of "Ben Bolt" is worth traveling a long way to hear.

EARLY MORNING RUN

The fire department was called to Mrs. Hayden's boarding house at 115 South Cascade avenue, yesterday morning at 8:30 o'clock. The people in the house made an amusing mistake in sending in the alarm, however, and the department found no fire after it reached the place. Some one had thrown a lighted match into a cold stove in one of the front rooms and some paper which had been deposited in the stove caught fire. The room was soon filled with smoke. The boarders quickly came to the conclusion that the house was on fire and an alarm was turned in. When the fire department reached the house the mistake had been discovered.

NEW OFFICERS INSTALLED

At the First Methodist church last evening occurred the introduction into office of the newly elected officers of the Epworth Leagues of St. Paul's M. E. church, of the M. E. church, south, and of the Colorado City Epworth League were guests of the young people of the First church.

The invocation was pronounced by Rev. E. Evans Currington, of the M. E. church south, after which there was a brief address by Rev. Bowell of Colorado City. After a vocal solo by Miss McMillan reports from the retiring officers of the Epworth League were given. Another report was from a special committee which has been raising funds for the parlor of the Deaconess sanatorium on the east side.

The installation ceremonies marking the induction into office of the new officers were impressive. Chancellor Buchtel, of Denver university, made appropriate remarks to each of the new officers and closed the ceremonies with an address on "A New Definition of Success," which was of the keenest interest throughout.

Refreshments were served in the parlors after the ceremonies. An Epworth League union was started toward organization, meetings to be held quarterly. It will include all the leagues in this city and Colorado City.

What they think of the ticket.

"Bryan and Stevenson, did you say?" said H. H. Hoyt, yesterday. "I think the ticket is as good as anything they could have put up. To my mind it didn't make much difference who they put up. They are bound to lose."

"It is a cutthroat ticket," said a newspaper man from Denver, who preferred that his name be withheld. "The ticket will cost the party Populist votes by nearly 50 per cent, Silver Republican votes probably in toto, and a whole lot of Democratic votes in all sections. Stevenson is the only man they could get, and he will prove a poor drawing card."

"What do I think of it?" said Charles Chandler of the Midland. "I think it's a loser, but it was a loser before it was named, so it don't make much difference."

"I think the ticket is weak," said W. E. Frenaye. "That 16 to 1 business under present conditions the country over will not draw many votes. Bryan could not have won had he thrown silver over and he certainly cannot win on silver, so it cuts little figure who his running mate may be."

"I think the ticket is beaten to begin with," said W. R. Roby. "I can't see where Stevenson will add any strength to the ticket. The west won't like him because he is not strong enough personally. The north won't like him because they feel that Towne was not treated right, and the east won't vote for him because they wanted Hill, and if they couldn't have him they wanted an eastern man anyway."

"The ticket suits me perfectly," said Judge W. S. Morris. "I think it can be beaten as easily as any ticket they could have put up. Stevenson was a last resort and the voters will regard him so. The wisest man in that convention was David B. Hill. He played the game properly. He worked up a sentiment in his favor as a party leader that was nothing short of tremendous. Then he declined to stand on a 16 to 1 platform, which was the only thing he could do consistently. I fully expect that he will be the nominee of the Democrats for president in 1904."

"You can say for me," said W. C. Jones last night, "and for all the rest of the Democrats of El Paso county, that we consider the ticket an exceptionally strong one and a certain winner. The fight is going to be an interesting one this fall, the Democrats being much stronger in doubtful states than their opponents give them credit for being. Mr. Stevenson adds strength to the ticket. He has had long experience in public affairs which will serve to counteract any sentiment against the youthfulness of Bryan and there is no doubt but this sentiment cost the Democrats many votes in the last campaign.

"Bryan and Stevenson will make a strong ticket.

"I am more than pleased with it. I shall urge as soon as the delegates get back that the Democrats turn out and give them a rousing reception and soon hold a celebration in honor of the work of the convention."

"I have just wagered $500," said Mr. J. J. McDaniels, "that Bryan and Stevenson carry Colorado this fall." I have heard the Republicans claiming that the ticket would fall with them this year and I was getting tired of hearing it.

"I have been willing for a good while to place my money on the Democratic ticket regardless of who might be nominated, but with Bryan and Stevenson I am all the more secure.

"I haven't the slightest doubt as to their being able to land a big majority in Colorado and I shall not be as much surprised to see them elected as I would be were they defeated."

A prominent lumber dealer who is a good Democrat, said last night: "Yes, I'm a good Democrat and I like the ticket that has been named at Kansas City, but I like McKinley prosperity too much to run the Democratic ticket this fall. I'm sorry the administration isn't a Democratic one, but I don't want any change."

SOME RARE AUTOGRAPHS

There is on exhibition in the window of Ashby's store this morning an autograph album owned in Colorado Springs which has several pages that probably cannot be duplicated in the world at the present time.

One shows the names of William Jennings Bryan and Adlai E. Stevenson, both on the same page, one written on July 9th last year and the other the next day.

Another page which can be seen shows the names of Ulysses S. Grant and William Tecumseh Sherman, this also being a page that probably has not a duplicate in existence.

The book contains the names of statesmen from 1863 to the present time, among them being Lincoln's full cabinet, Horace Greeley, Schuyler Colfax, James A. Garfield, James G. Blaine, Thomas A. Hendricks, William Windom and scores of others.

One page shows Gideon Welles, secretary of the navy under Lincoln, and John D. Long, secretary of the navy under McKinley; the one during the civil war and the other during the war with Spain.

Admiral Farragut and Admiral Porter are included and on the page where Farragut's name appears a space is being held for Admiral Dewey.

The only names in the book that are not names of military or naval commanders of great fame or men of official rank of a United States congressman or higher are the names of Henry Ward Beecher and Dwight L. Moody.

There is not a name in the book that was bought or sent for and then pasted in. Each name has been secured personally by the present owner or by his father, who started the collection in 1863, when he was a page in the house of representatives at Washington.

The book is open at the Bryan and Stevenson page, and will remain on exhibition at Ashby's for a day or two.

A LAWN SOCIAL.

At the home of the Misses Kellogg, 1302 North Weber street, the Christian Endeavorers of the First Congregational church held a social on the lawn. Chinese lanterns illuminated the scene and a lemonade punch was served. Musical numbers composed the entertainment features of the evening.

There was a large attendance.

BURNS SEELY BACK FROM CAPE NOME

Mr. Burns Seeley, a well known young business man of this city, who left several weeks ago for Cape Nome, intending to be away several months, returned yesterday.

He is of the opinion that the reports of riches to be had there have been greatly overdrawn. The transportation companies, he says, have encouraged the utmost exaggeration of the advantages of the district as a gold country, merely to keep up the activity in travel to and from the Cape.

Of the several hundred passengers on the boat which brought Mr. Seeley back there were only a very few people who had made enough to pay them for the trouble of going to Alaska.

NEW RAILWAY NEWS

The various contractors on the new railroad to Cripple Creek sent up additional men yesterday to work at grading, laying ties and rails and are seeking more laborers. The entire line is now swarming with men. Blasting in the tunnels has progressed rapidly and the holes through mountains that will be between here and Cripple Creek, will soon have daylight in both ends.

A NEW BONANZA

Believed to Have Been Discovered on Capitol Hill--Shipment by the Lexington.

Special to the Gazette

Cripple Creek July 6—The excitement in camp tonight is all over what is believed to be the possible discovery of another Gold Coin mine at this end of the district. Between Third and Fourth streets on Capitol hill and between Irene and Whiting avenues the Gold Hill Consolidated Co has been sinking a shaft for some time past and now at 100 feet from surface has run into a body of ore all of which appears to be pay. The moment the contractors found they had encountered ore and that it carried values they wired the president of the company Colonel J N Downing, at Denver and that gentleman is now on the ground. He is greatly elated over the showing and is convinced that he has a bonanza property, but adds in caution about the strike that it will be well for investors to wait until a shipment has been made and the width of the vein determined. There is plenty of stock in the treasury of his company.

Manager Von Hemert of the Lexington company close by shipment of 10 tons representing the week's output to day. Of this 15 tons were approximately seven ounces. There are 5 tons of three ounce rock, while the remainder will easily sample $40 a ton. Manager Von Hemert is not doing any sinking at present for the very good reason that the Gold Will tunnel making progress at the rate of 15 feet per day will shortly cut his ore shoot at 200 feet lower than where he is now working. When this is done the property can be tapped through the Gold Will tunnel at a much less cost than from the surface.

Well informed miners who are thoroughly posted on the known veins of the district have long looked upon Cresson territory—a tract of 20 acres lying in the swale between Bull and Raven hills as a piece of ground that had great merit. At present there are seven sets of lessees working on this particular tract and several of them have good showing.

The Woods Investment company the day purchased about 80 acres of ground close to Midway on Bull hill directly joining their Wild Horse property and from the new shaft on the Wild Horse this territory is to be developed. The purchase includes the controlling interest in the Londonderry stock the Highland claim the Fairview claim a portion of the Climax the Horseshoe the Henry Coby claim and one or two other fractions. All this ground is to be incorporated into a company known as the Bull Hill Consolidated. The purchase price was around $600 000 for the properties mentioned.

10 HOIST ORE FROM NELLIE V.

Shaft is Now Retimbered, Machinery in Place and Broken Ore Will Be Hoisted--Sinking and Stoping to Begin at Once.

The main shaft on the Nellie V has now been completely retimbered to the depth of [illegible] feet and sinking will be resumed at once.

[illegible] on workings of the property owned jointly by J. M. De La Vergne and the company has now been equipped with a new plant of hoisting machinery and every preparation has been made for active work on the shaft and the lessees and the company are sanguine that they will develop a good mine.

In addition to the mine which will be continued from [illegible] feet the property will be worked vigorously. [illegible] ore taken out in the drifting on the 100 foot level will be hoisted and sorted. The ore taken out in the drifting on the 200 foot level will be left on the dump for the present. The ore taken out in the drifting on the 300 foot level will be left in the Red Bird shaft and machinery and also the shaft rights belonging to the Red Bird will be used in the sinking of the Nellie V. The Red Bird is now sinking at a rate of about 10 feet per day and will shortly be in ore. The lessees working in the Columbine Victor fund are drifting on a strong vein in the Wild Horse claim. They are drifting in ore which runs $20 to the ton but hope to cut up a richer grade rock than that which has been broken in the drift. The lessees working on the property in addition to Mr De La Vergne and the company will prove a safe investment, promising handsome profits. Full particulars upon request.

Gold Hill is Booming

because of the discovery of rich ore in the old and well-known Gold Hill mines, and the opening up of splendid ore-bodies in new mines on that hill. The Gold King claim, (adjoining Anchoria-Leland and Lexington on the top of Gold Hill) and owned by the Progress Company, is shipping 3 to 5 ounce ore, and we consider

THE COLORADO SPRINGS MINING STOCK EXCHANGE

Colorado Springs, July 6.—The market today on the Colorado Springs mining stock exchange, after a rest for two days, was the best that has been seen on the local exchange for a long time. Moreover, it cannot be said that the splendid market is due to the accumulation of orders entirely. That today's market stands for three. While to a large extent, so far as the bulk of trading is concerned, these statements are true, the fact that some remarkable advances were scored plainly indicates that the orders were in the great majority buying orders. Predictions of a better market have been so general, and so many brokers have been advising their clients to buy now, that the higher prices have come a little sooner than was expected. It is also true, however, that the stocks which were the strongest, were so because of attractive conditions surrounding them, which would cause the price to advance, and that many of the prospects stocks are still selling at a low figure.

Mariposa furnishes the most striking feature of the day, having advanced to 8⅝ under very heavy trading. It was not long ago that this stock was selling around five and six cents, and the showing in the Red Bird of the National company has been almost entirely responsible for the advance. Pointer was very strong, advancing to 18⅛, and remaining very firm at that price on the second call. Central Consolidated was very strong at 9¾, as was Grace at 7⅞. Nellie V. advanced to 12¾ this afternoon and Acacia and Mollie Dwyre at 7¾. Colorado Mtn. Tunnel was quite strong at 2¾, and Gold Hill exhibited a decided amount of strength, closing strong at 37¾. National declined a point on the second call to 14¼, but Lexington gained fractionally to 17. Goldstone was a heavy trader on both calls, selling up to 2¼, and Gold Hill was a good trader at 2⅝. Volcano was quite strong at 7¾, and New Haven, which has been selling at 8⅞, gained a point to 9½. Independence T. and M. was very firm at 49. There are rumors of a compromise again. Blanche, a pit payers Portland was quite strong at $3.10. Vindicator sold at $1.50 and Isabella went at $1.25, which is a cent below the price at which it sold on the morning call, but that means nothing.

The trading for the day was much heavier than usual, the shares exchanged reaching the splendid total of 1,094,202, representing a cash value amounting to $121,563.75.

Breaks Records—The young man who last week won the Blatchford Kavanagh and Pancoast Boys Concert [illegible] A [illegible] concert is one of the best known young singers in this country As a boy soprano he was without a peer and as a baritone he is establishing an enviable reputation

It was with much trepidation and fear that the friends of the promising earlier years was watched in the development of his voice as a man The well known fact that the voice of the boy never foretells what the man will possess was illustrated in his case and when at his age of age it was discovered that he had a sweet baritone of rare quality the delight of the faithful teacher of his boyhood knew no bounds At once the cultivation of the voice was resumed with the result that it was developed into one of decided sweetness and vibility with unusual range and a sympathetic tone fulfilled all the promise of years before Some 18 months ago Prof Remy and Mr Kavanagh organized a company which has since covered the entire country in its travels delighting hundreds of audiences with its ability This famous company of artists will appear at the Temple theater Friday evening July 13th for the benefit of the Y M C A building fund Reserved seats are on sale at 124 North Tejon street
